Rain, rain, rain, rain, rain. Anyone else ready for a nice warm, sunny spring day? I promise it is coming. The good news is the rivers and lakes should have plenty of water this year.

Even with the bad weather, severe storm the previous day, and a poor forecast, we had almost 20 people show up for the Horton outing this year. It was nice to see some new faces. Many fish were caught; in fact, almost all fishers caught some, including some good sized cutthroat. Everyone got together for lunch for Bill and Glen's Dutch oven desserts. Even with the iffy weather, it was a great first outing. Thanks to Bill and Glen for hosting this event.

Our next scheduled outing will be the Crooked River, planned for May 5, 6, and 7th hosted by Fred and Jen Acosta. Keep your eye on the newsletter and website for information on our upcoming outings. The high water level of the rivers could affect the timing of the outings.

The intermediate fly tying classes have ended. Another year of great classes were taught. Thank you, Rod, for your organization and presentation of some excellent fly patterns. The beginning classes are underway. Looking forward to getting beginning tyers moved up to the intermediate classes next year.

The Wooden Boat Show at Eagle Rock Lodge is Saturday, April 22nd. This event is the annual signal that fishing season is here. It is a great show with beautiful wooden boats, hosted at Eagle Rock Lodge, right on the river. Every year Cascade Family Flyfishers has a booth and raffle that goes to the youth program. Come visit. It is a great show with food, and assorted booths. The spotlight is on the classic McKenzie River drift boats to custom built works of art, some arriving as they float down the McKenzie River.

Bob Wolfe's introduction to fly fishing was quite a success. Thank you, Bob, for your expertise and dedication to the development of skills to our members. The next of our series of clinics coming up by Bob Wolfe is April 29th. This is a casting clinic for tune-up of skills, common errors, and helpful tips. As always, these events are for CFF members only. Be sure to get signed up or contact Bob to join the fun. Hope to see you there.

Hope to see you at our next meeting on April 27th. Our speaker is Mike McCoy of SnakeBrand Guides. Many of you know Mike. He is an awesome person, very knowledgeable of all aspects of fly fishing. I am personally looking forward to his presentation.

Randy Beard, President

Got Pictures ? The Editor

I have an idea for the June Newsletter, let's honor Father's/Mother's Day with photos of CFF members fishing with their parents, kids or grandkids.

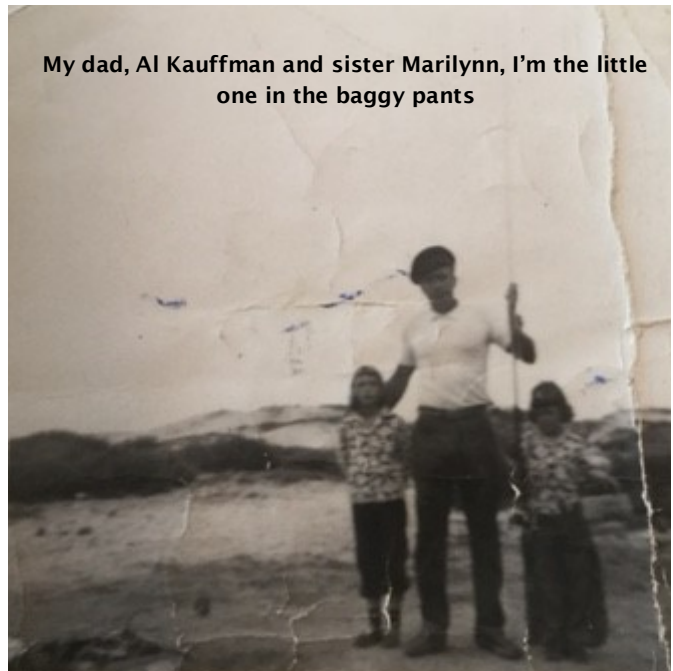

The idea came to me after a conversation with my 87 year old Aunt. My Aunt suggested that I might have inherited my fishing genes from my father. I hope she is right, my favorite memories of my father are on the ocean in Southern California fishing.

I wanted to make the photo saving and sending easy so I experimented by using the camera on my phone. As I'm not looking for art photos here, just a snapshot in time I was satisfied with the result.

So I invite you to grab your camera, take a picture and email it to me at rozinkadena@yahoo.com. Submissions will need to be received by Sunday, June 11th.

Thanks, Roz Kauffman, Newsletter Editor

April 27th Presentation

Mike McCoy — Czech Nymphing
the Crooked River

Mike McCoy wears several illustrious hats. Mike and Susan McCoy are the owners/operators of the company, Snake Brand, Inc, producer of world famous “Snake Brand” guides for fly rods----and so much more. Check out this company at www.snakeguides.com.

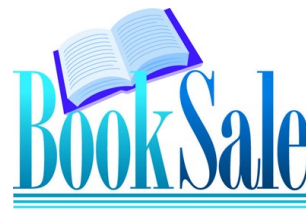

Mike McCoy is also a spectacular fly tyer, tying hundreds of flies annually for use by world famous European fly fishing competitors, the originators of the Czech technique!

Inventor, innovator and generous personality, Mike McCoy will share a presentation featuring a relatively “new” form of fly fishing: “Czech Nymphing”. Mike will also be demonstrating tying some of his powerfully productive flies---you gotta see this! Mike tells me that this presentation will focus upon using Oregon’s Crooked River for teaching his technique, and, that this method is applicable for numerous trout rivers in North America.

Several of our CFF members have been with Mike McCoy, fishing the Crooked River. They have big smiles from this experience! Expect to be exposed to some seminal learning!

I have invited Mike and Susan to attend our pre-meeting nohost dinner, 5:30pm, at Newman’s Grotto 485 Coburg Road, Eugene, OR 97401

Michael T Williams CFF Program Chair

Outing Host, Rod Roth

Distance from Eugene/Springfield area, 77 miles, (travel time about 1 hour 30 min.):

Directions from Eugene:

Take Hwy 126 east thru Springfield. Continue for 65 miles. Take a left onto NF-750. Look for the street sign marked Carmen Diversion Reservoir if you come to the (ICE Cap Campground) you have gone too far, go back a short distance turn (R). Continue on a good dirt road keeping (R) for approximately 0.4 miles. You will come to a large parking area. Do not go over the bridge. The Reservoir is on the (L). Entry to the reservoir is at the information sign at the edge of the Water. Ease of entry can vary due to the water level. There are other entry points a short distance over the bridge, to the (R). There is a Forest Service bathroom a short distance further on. Car pooling is recommended.

Meeting Time:

We will meet at the parking area, as described, @ Carmen at 09:00 AM.

Flotation Equipment:

Motors are not allowed. Non-motorized drift boats, pontoon boats, and float tubes are all great methods to access the fishing. All skill levels are perfect for this impoundment, from beginners to the advanced. Water is typically calm and well protected. The water is very cold. Make sure that you are wearing thermal under garments.

Fishing Equipment:

The reservoir is a diversion for power production. The water is exceptionally clear and has alternating deep sections 4-18 feet. The trout are planted rainbow trout, 8—16 inches. Fishing is best done using a sink tip or full sinking line. Leader length is 7--9 feet, tippet 3.5 to 4 pound weight. Recommended wet flies are gold bead, 10—12 wooly bugger (black marabou with silver flash on tail-- or olive), hare's ear, prince nymph, A Callibaetis hatch is possible with good weather. A 5 fish limit is in effect.

Treats - Lunch:

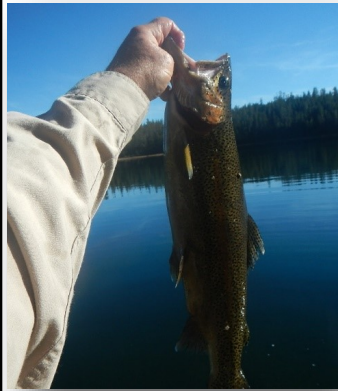

The group will reconvene together at lunchtime 11:30 to 12:00. Bring your own meal, treats and beverage.

Apparel/Camera:

Weather has been variable in the past years. Raining to sunny, warm weather. Wear clothing appropriate to the temperature and conditions.

Be sure to remember your camera (waterproof sack and tethered) and take photos to share our fishing adventures for the newsletter and/or the CFF website.

North Twin Lake Outing

May 20, 2017

Trip Host: Bob Wolfe

North Twin is a small natural Cascade Lake about 2 ¼ hours from Eugene and is a wonderful, day trip, fly fishing destination. Being a small lake and stocked with nice sized Rainbows, North Twin is a great place for beginning fly fishers as well as old veterans. The lake can be fished from shore or a floating device. Great place for beginning float tubers. We will be meeting at the boat launch around 9:30 and fish until about 5 PM or until you are tired. Pack a good lunch and snacks as we will not be taking time out of prime fishing for a get together lunch. Carpooling is recommended as there is not a lot of parking area.

Directions:

Follow Hwy 58 toward Bend. About 12 miles past Willamette Pass look for the Crescent Cut-off on the Left. Follow the Crescent cut-off for about 4 miles to the Cascade Lakes highway on the left. Proceed on the Cascade Lakes Highway for about 17 miles and watch for Forest Service Road 42, also known as Century Drive. Take a right onto FS 42 and go about 3 ½ miles to the Twin Lakes Resort road on the right. North Twin is the next left, about ¼ mile. For camping opportunities, check with Twin Lakes Resort at 541/382-6432.

Recommended equipment:

4-6 wt. rod with floating line and intermediate sinking line for those who like to troll. There are lots of large fish so a good net is a must and good 4 to 6 LB. tippet material. Fluorocarbon recommended.

Being early season, the fish will be feeding primarily on Chironomids but a Callibaetis May Fly hatch can come on at any time. Be prepared with size 14-16 Parachute Adams or similar dry flies. Size 14 Black or Black/Red Chironomids and a supply of Woolly buggers and Leach patterns should fill the bill. Be prepared to fish Chironomids under an indicator.

Bring warm clothing as spring weather can be cool and/or wet. Bad weather can be very good fishing if you are prepared.

For more information, please do not hesitate to give Bob a call at 541-310-8020.

Horton Pond

Al Corbin at the boat launch

Horton Pond outing was a good time for those who braved the variable weather. It rained, was sunny, windy, then calm, rained, was sunny, windy, then calm, rained, sunny....The good news was that the fish were biting. Many members caught some good-sized cutthroat before lunch, and went back for more afterwards. We had a good showing of about 20 members, and it was nice to welcome several new members on their first outing with Cascade Family Flyfishers. Bill Burleigh and Glen Neal did a fine job of providing the delicious Dutch oven desserts for us during lunch. The scent of those freshly baked goodies wafted across the water as we fished. It was a delightful day to spend with Cascade Family members. Thanks to all who showed up, and our gourmet hosts, Bill and Glen.

Mill Race Diary

By Kat Paiva

Truthfully, I was volunteer shamed into it. You're familiar with the situation - someone comes up to you with a Volunteer Sign-up sheet, one with no firm commitment dates, and no explanation of what it is you will be doing, and says "everyone else has signed up." I wasn't quick enough with an excuse and everyone else was doing it, so I had to sign-up.

I had volunteered for the Springfield Mill Race Fish Sampling project. CFF has partnered with ODFW to help determine the movement patterns of trout and other fish that use the Mill Race as habitat. How I was going help in doing this was as yet unknown.

Time passes.

Training day arrives. We meet at a Springfield park, split into groups and march to the edge of a rushing, too-much-cream-in-my-coffee-colored Mill Race at the 28th Street Bridge. Our ODFW representative hops in the water and it's up to his chest. I gulp loudly and notice others around me doing the same. With my luck, I'd take a header and nose dredge my way downstream before anyone could catch me. In my head I'm thinking, "no way I'm doing this."

With the help of CFF member Floyd Wooton, he and ODFW guy wrestle/roll something the size of a chicken wire Volkswagen to the shore, open it up, and find a couple of little fish. (I am disappointed - guess I was expecting a steelhead or something.) We drug the little guys and measure them and set about guessing what they are. There are many choices including cutthroats, rainbow trout, redband trout, lamprey eel, sunfish, and largescale suckers. We haven't a clue, so ODFW guy decides for us and recommends we study Field Guide to Common Fish of the Willamette Valley Floodplain.

After determining origin, we test the water temp, note the weather, the water flow, determine whether or not the fish has been tagged (if he's a trout), clip his caudal fin, upper or lower, depending on the location, record the date, the names of the samplers, the trap location, and move to the next trap. Again I say to myself, "there's no way I'm doing this."

Time passes.

Roz and I volunteer to help with a Beginning Fly Fishing class up in Vida and on the way home we decide to stop at the Booth Kelly trap location where Steve, Trese, Michelle, and Floyd are starting their shift. We make our way down to the river and the six of us start checking the traps. Me on the shore of course, providing commentary, as this is an experienced crew. The crew toss the large and heavy "holding" rocks (as if they were marshmallows) off the smaller traps, net their discoveries into a bucket and whisk them to shore. It was very exciting to see what each trap held. Exciting in that you never know what you'll find, and the water had gone down. Jim Breedlove shows up and Guess What Fish This Is By (a large) Committee commences. It's a crack-up and fun. Hmmm, maybe I could do this.

More time passes.....

I commit to a date with Roz, Betty, and our muscle guy, Floyd. Betty and I pick up the equipment outside the ODFW office - to open the box one stands and bends upside down (similar to finding a stall in the ladies restroom), fixes the code on the double locks and yanks. This is not always a successful endeavor and may require some mild cursing or other body contorting to see the lock, double check the combination, and yank it "just right." Bingo! The locks open, we stuff the van with life jackets, nets and buckets, date sheets, the fish ID book, scissors, the measuring board, knock-out drops, a First Aid Kit, safety equipment, the PIT tag Reader, and we head off to the BK traps.

We waded up, threw on our PFD's and mucked our way to the shoreline with our equipment. It was raining, sunny, and cloudy ... simultaneously. Our first trap yields some pretty chubby pollywogs, and three fish. Again, we employ the Guess What Fish This Is by Committee, and write our determination on the ODFW sampling sheet. We found a trout in the hoop trap and got to wave the PIT scanner (fatter than a Fairy Godmother wand and but more Star Wars looking than a grocery store hand-held scanner) over it to see if it had been tagged. It had been and we recorded its numbers on our sheet, if not, we'd have left it in a special tube in the river for ODFW to come out insert a small tracking device.

Then we hopped in our cars and headed for the 28th Street Bridge location. Driving there I'm thinking, "This is fun. And much more enjoyable than spreading gravel on paths at Delta Ponds." I feel more of a connection to our sport participating through this activity. In the water, with other club members and with the fish - learning where they go and why, and discovering species I didn't even know lived in our waterways.

So, I signed up again ... and again. If you haven't signed up and been trained for the Mill Race Sampling Project -- do it! You're interacting with other club members, learning more about Oregon fish and their habitat, and helping preserve and protect this particular habitat for present and future generations. Plus, it's a blast!

PS. And yes, I was wearing two right shoes that day, all through my own fault!

CFF Auction

Tuesday, October 24th

Springfield Elks Lodge

1701 Centennial Blvd,

The donations keep rolling in for our CFF October Auction! Last month we received a couple of great beginner rods and reels and big bag stuffed with fly tying materials. Check around your house - do you have a new or slightly used camping or fishing related items that you could donate to the Auction? If so, bring it to our meeting on Thursday, April 27th, and we'll gladly take it off your hands.

We could use some gift basket fillers too. This year we will have wine, coffee, holiday, Fall, and Simply Homemade baskets. If you've crafted something, canned something, grown something, or simply want to re-gift something that fits into any of these categories, you can donate it at our next meeting, or create your own basket!

Remember, we only have one fund raiser a year - let's make this one a big success! Your donation to the Auction helps raise money to bring informative fly fishing related speakers to our club, provide funds for our fly tying class materials, helps fund youth programs, club educational clinics, and community outreach programs.

If you would like us to pick up your donated items, please email Frank at fpai1ops@aol.com or Katherine at paivakm@gmail.com and we'll make arrangements.

Thanks, Frank & Katherine Paiva, Auction Chairs

The Mystery Box

CFF President Randy Beard has already started collecting items for this box, which will be auctioned off to the highest bidder during the Live Auction in October. He'll be gathering all sorts of interesting and exciting items all year and promises big surprises!

What will be in the President's Mystery Box? Find out at the CFF Auction on Tuesday, October 24th, at the Springfield Elks Lodge.

NW Fly Tyer and Fly Fishing Expo

Marv Clemons

Cascade Family Fly Fishers (CFF) had 32 of its members participating as volunteers in the 2017 OCIFFF EXPO this year, this includes tyers. This was more volunteers than any other Oregon club. Members participating included: Jen & Fred Acosta, Randy Beard, Jerry Blade, Bill Burleigh, Marv Clemons, Ginnie Grilley, John Higby, Roz Kauffman, Glenn Miller, Dennis Munroe, Steve & Michelle Overall, Frank & Katherine Paiva, Trese Slocum, Paul Vanderplaat, Dale Ledyard, Zach Adler, Norm Domgala, Skip & Donna Hosfield, Vic Hadley, Mike Marlatt, Brandy Williford, Michael T. Williams, Joe Moody, Tony Overstake, Bob Wolfe, Craig Prindel, Rod Roth and Steve Brehm. NOTE: I apologize if I inadvertently missed someone who volunteered.

I am not sure how many of you have ever planned an event using volunteers, but I think many of you have. Your mind is constantly thinking about everything that needs to be done, what have I forgotten. did everyone get the email I sent, what if people don't show up and then you smile to yourself and say "...Hey, we've got this." I have 32 volunteers working with me most who have been through this process for as long as I have. They know their tasks, show up and jump right in without even being asked. You arrive and the volunteers are already at work and ask you "What took you so long?" and you give them a big smile. It's all good.

The EXPO this year was such an event. It went off like clock-work and everyone seemed to have a great time visiting the vendors, watching the tyers, meeting with old friends and making new ones.

Beside keeping the bucket raffle booth running smoothly, being one of the "Red Apron Brigade" is one of the best ways to see everything at the EXPO. The red aprons are used to identify raffle ticket sellers who walk the floor of the EXPO selling tickets. The sellers have open access to everything on the floor and watch casting demonstrations by the professional casters, stop by and see how the professional tyers tie their masterpieces, watch the young people tie flies, cast and read water at the Youth Education Booth and pick up brochures from some of the best guides, and fishing resorts available. Often, they are given a fly or two by the tyer they have been watching. They do not, however, enter the classrooms and disturb the presenters during class time. The sellers often see and hear about "good deals", see vendors with unique exhibits or products and share them with ticket purchasers as they go about their selling, which is much appreciated. Wearing a red apron and selling tickets is also a good way to give volunteers an active role to play between drawing times.

The 2017 EXPO was a special year for the McKenzie Fly Fishers of Eugene. The McKenzie Club is the club that started the International Federation of Fly Fishers in 1965. This year they were honored as the Fly Fishing Club of the Year by the Oregon Council of the International Federation of Fly Fishers. They too participated in the smooth operation of the event this year by having twelve members who ran the event registration booth, and many others as professional tyers. We are all glad to have them back.

Hook a Book with Betty Capt

Check out the CFF webpage where we have posted the complete inventory of the CFF Library. We have over a hundred books in our collection with many valuable fishing resources. Because of the difficulty in transporting heavy books to the meeting, you have not been able to see these books. It is our hope that with a list of inventory available to you, access to these resources will be simplified. Request a particular book and I will bring it to the next meeting.

New Books:

The library has acquired new books thanks to the generosity of Stan Guiles. They will be soon added to the inventory on the website. In the meantime here is a list of some of them. If you would like to check them out, please email me at bcapt888@gmail.com.
